TROY, Alabama - Seven members of the ARC of Baldwin County powerlifting team met the qualifying standards for the Special Olympics National Summer Games during the Alabama State Games on Saturday.

Those athletes were Tony Madaris, James Lemon, Michael Cline, Laura Cardell, Tamera Ranger, David Hall and Kelby Sanders.

The state board selects the team that will represent Alabama at the National Summer Games, which will be held in Princeton, N.J., next year.

ARC of Baldwin County also fielded a team in the demonstration sport of flag football and is hopeful that some of its players will be selected for the state squad.
